Chile

Fresita - www.fresita.com / Twitter: @fresitacanada

Fresita means 'strawberry' in Spanish and few know that the first strawberries were white and discovered in Chile's Patagonia. Later in 1714, Amedee-Francoise Frezier introduced them to the rest of the world and eventually the red strawberries evolved. Fresita is made by infusing hand-picked, Patagonian strawberries into our blend of sparkling wine.

Pol Roger is among the smaller of the great Champagne houses, but ranks with the very highest in terms of prestige and an uncompromising reputation for quality. It remains proudly independent, one of a very select brand of Grandes Marques still remaining in family hands. Its cellars, extending to some 7 km, lie on three levels in the chalk below Epernay and are among the coolest and the deepest in the region: contributing no doubt to the excellent, persistent mousse of small bubbles which distinguishes all Pol Roger Champagnes.

The Pere Magloire brand is owned by Debris-Debulac which was established in 1821. Calvados is named after a rock located off Arromanches. One legend suggests the name comes from Calva Dorsa, 'bald backs' in Latin, a name found on old sea charts that refers to two strips of bare land that navigators used to take their bearings. Although distillation of apple brandy has been documented in Normandy as early as 1553, Calvados did not become an official appellation until 1942.

Balblair – www.balblair.com / Twitter: @balblairwhisky

Welcome to the idyllic coast of the Dornoch Firth, the home of Balblair. It's here, since we rolled out our first barrels in 1790, that we've been producing award-winning Highland Single Malt whisky. You'll notice our bottles are not marked with an age statement, but simply with the year that the whisky was laid down. Every year, the casks are sampled, judged and selected by Distiller Manager, John MacDonald to find its optimum maturation point. That's why we only create Vintages timed to perfection.
